Passing through the farm land of America enjoying the view of acres and acres of crops always touches my heart. It brings tears of appreciation for the farmer. The preparation of the soil, the seeding, watering and ongoing protection of his crops from the elements is a never ending responsibility.

How satisfying it must be to recall the challenges of the past season week to week and month to month; and to view the remains of a successful (in spite of the challenges) harvest!

In the mind of the planter is perishability. Destructive elements are ever present and a concern continually from seed to harvest and beyond. Psalm 104:14 "He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and herbs for the service of man; that he may bring forth food out of the earth".

It is God that has provided for us and made all things possible. Just as the grass and herbs have a life...God has given man life. Psalm 103:15 "As for man his days are as grass." Also Isaiah 40: 6 & 7 "All flesh is as grass." 1 Peter 1:24 "For all flesh is as grass and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth and the flowers thereof fadeth away."

Perishability is a constant factor in the minds of the planter and perishability is a concern as we consider the nature of human life and the human existence.

1 Corinthians 3:12 & 13 "Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble; Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is."

Our God-given life on earth is perishable as hay or grass. We ourselves were lost sinners who can do nothing to save ourselves. We were as the hay and grass which withers. 1 Corinthians 3:11 "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

When we receive Jesus Christ as our savior, we have a new foundation on which to build our lives and labor of love, and service. Which represents your life? Grass or gold, which lasts indefinitely - forever and forever! Will you shine in eternity?

Let's all give thanks giving and praise to our wonderful Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ! Praise God!

Have a Blessed Thanksgiving, Patricia Webb

Questions Answers

To: CPR

I have recently watched your seminars on divorce and re-marriage on YouTube. I was led to them via an app called telegram in a Christian group I am in. I found your work most intriguing and mind blowing to be frankly honest. Consequently I am now in a mental state of somewhat confusion due to my personal circumstances.

I am 40 years old. I was raised in a Christian home, I have only seriously pursued God's word and teaching in the last year. During my time of turning from God I had 2 children. I remained single. I formed a relationship with my now husband. He is not a Christian. Before I was with him he was married. This was his only marriage before me. He fathered 3 children with her.

Knowing his background and the reason for his divorce I was always sure (because of my teachings and my observation of the Bible's rules) that he rightfully and lawfully divorced because of the fornication (sexual immorality) that his wife was continually committing. Therefore I agreed to marry him thinking it was biblically approved.

After watching your seminar I am now so confused about my own circumstance. I am almost convinced I am living as an adulteress in an unlawful marriage and he is by God's law still married to his first wife.

I have consulted my parents on this and they disagree vehemently and cite Matthew 19:9 as proof that a husband and wife can divorce and re-marry if the other commits adultery via fornication (pornea - sexual immorality). They say the offending spouse is only not permitted re-marry as they have committed adultery and that when the innocent spouse re-marries they are then loosed of the marriage covenant. I am at a point where if I take God's word (as it seems to clearly say by what you present) and leave my husband, I stand to lose the respect of my and approval of my parents, parents in-law and obviously my husband, children, step children would be devastated.

This whole thing is mind blowing to me and life changing. My question is am I on the right path in thinking my marriage is invalid and in-fact adultery? Or have I interpreted your seminar, presented information and God's word incorrectly? I would love to hear from someone with further clarification and encouragement if possible.

Bless you Dr. Webb, I believe your work to present God's law is truly righteous. I hope to hear back when you have time.

Kindest Regards, V.N.

Dear V.N,

Matthew 19:8-9 Jesus was ministering within the Jewish culture and was speaking in the terms of fornication (Single Sex). Jewish custom was the bride and groom were promised to on another (engaged) for a period before marriage. If she committed fornication (single sex) He could "put her away". Fornication - Porneia in Greek (single sex). Adultery - Mokeia (married sex).

I would suggest you go online and order the book, "Till Death Do Us Part". This would benefit the entire family. I'm sure they want God's will for you and your family. You could each read, study scripture and come together to pray concerning the outcome.

Hebrews 13:4 "Marriage is honorable in all, and bed undefiled, but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge." There are many, many more scriptures which you will encounter in the book I will pray for you and your family. I thank you for writing to CPR Ministries.

Is it true that re-marriage after divorce is adultery? Is it also true that sex equals marriage? Thus, thus sex with any one other than the original sexual partner while the original sexual partner is alive is adultery?

Dear M.C., Thank you for your inquiry.

Yes it is true that remarriage after divorce is adultery under the assumption that the first marriage was a covenant marriage.

No, sex does not make a marriage. A single sexual partner involved in sexual acts does not create a marriage; it is fornication! Matthew 19:6 "Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

Pastor Webb's book, "Till Death Do Us Part?" states clearly the covenant marriage between man and woman that the Lord is witness to the commitment. He makes you "one flesh". Pastor Webb's book, is available on our website and so is the seminar giving explicit definition of terms and answers many questions.

Thank you for your question and I trust the answers help you!

"Jesus Christ has called His Church to set a standard; not to gain a following: If in setting that standard the Church does gain a following, all the better. If, however the Church fails to set the standard and then gains a following it will be to Her detriment."

Taking a 21st Century Stand

ATTENTION: Major social media outlets are finding ways to block the conservative/evangelical viewpoint. Check The Stand's Daily Digest for delivery of the day's top blog.

Taking a stand on biblical principles in the 21st century is tough. Many challenges and fears come with speaking up and speaking out on what is right and what is wrong according to the Word of God. It is also an extremely humbling experience. But we are in good company; Jesus Christ faced stark criticism and severe intolerance. Paul faced intolerance of his beliefs as well, as did the church in Rome.

Knowing this, the apostle encouraged the young church with the words, "Bless those who persecute you; bless and do not curse them. Rejoice with those who rejoice, weep with those who weep. Live in harmony with one another. Do not be haughty, but associate with the lowly. Never be wise in your own sight. Repay no one evil for evil, but give thought to do what is honorable in the sight of all" (Romans 12:14-17).

We are to bless and pray for those who persecute us. The gospel message of repentance from sin and acceptance of Jesus Christ as the Son of God isn't always accepted by the lost. However, Isaiah 55:11 says, "So shall my word be that goes out from my mouth; it shall not return to me empty, but it shall accomplish that which I purpose, and shall succeed in the thing for which I sent it."

For Christians, there is always a higher purpose to keep in mind. Sharing our faith plants seeds even though harvest time may be a good bit down the road. We may never see the harvest of our work in this lifetime, but we nevertheless must be faithful to what Jesus calls us to do: proclaim the good news of Jesus Christ and the power of His sacrifice.

Don't believe the lie that Christians are too assertive in sharing the gospel. If we know others can experience the redemption of His sacrifice, how can we be silent? Jesus was very assertive when sharing the gospel. He said, "But when you enter a town and are not welcomed, go into its streets and say, 'Even the dust of your town we wipe from our feet as a warning to you. Yet be sure of this: The kingdom of God has come near.' I tell you, it will be more bearable on that day for Sodom than for that town" (Luke 10:10-12 NIV).

While Jesus sympathized with people, He nevertheless interacted with them in bold and unwavering ways. He never shied away from telling them the simple fact that He is the only way to receive eternal life. May each believer recognize we are all sinful and in desperate need of Jesus. May we also recognize the need for boldness to unapologetically proclaim the gospel and expose the darkness of this day and age even when persecution awaits us (Ephesians 5:11).

We must know what we believe, and why we believe it, and be able to defend our beliefs. It is no longer acceptable for Christians in America to merely believe, but not be able to defend. Along with belief we should be prepared to give an answer for our faith, as commanded in 1 Peter 3:15.

Assertiveness and confidence when sharing your faith can be positive attributes when paired with humility.
